Fausto Fungaroli, participated as a scholar of the “Trinkhaus Burkhardt” bank at this year’s unit of work project “Festival for choir and orchestra” and was also present during the European music festival in Stuttgart/Germany.

Fausto Fungaroli, whom I also knew quite well from numerous former courses for conductor’s of an orchestra at the international Bach school of music in Stuttgart, left this year once again a excellent, convincing and professional impression with his participation.

He was present at all the rehearsals as well at all the concert’s and had prepared extremely well for the concert’s repertoire, which included *Bruckner, 9th symphony and Te Deum, Mendelssohn Bartholdy, Elias.

I steadily talked to him and answered all of his specific topic related questions.

At various times he was also given the opportunity to conduct with the ensemble the diverse *musical work’s, which had been still mentioned.

He conducted the ensemble with great sovereignty and in a differentiated manner, he shaped the entire musical repertoire, every single musical work, for which he received a very positive and kind response from the whole ensemble.

It has really given me great pleasure to have had this young, gifted and talented musician, at our festival.

I would like to express my best wishes for Fausto Fungaroli’s future as an artist.

Helmuth Rilling
